W. P. WALTON.

The most infamous character that ever figured in American politics stands before the country to-day the nominee for the presidency of the most corrupt political organization that ever existed in this or any other country. That infamous character is James G. Blaine, of Maine, the republican standard bearer. Brilliant his admirers call him, and so he is after a fashion, but it is the phosphorescent brilliancy of a rotten mackerel. Audacious he is in some degree, but it is the audacity of a foot-pad. Loud-mouthed and self-asserting he is, too, in a manner, but it is the noise of the bragard and the self-assertion of the liar. Dishonest in heart and soul, he sold the favors of public position for pelf. Treacherous as a Snake Indian, he betrayed public trusts to enrich himself. This is not the denunciation of a personal enemy, nor the slander of a political foe-man. It is the portrait of James G. Blaine as painted by himself—a portrait every line and curve of which was drawn by a pen held in his own fingers.—[Breckenridge News.

Alluding to Blaine's alleged "Scotch marriage" in Kentucky, the Chicago News says: "And it is certainly to be regretted that such a marriage should have been so secret that no record of it was preserved. We wonder if Sarah Stanwood and S. L. Blaine the witnesses, are still living? It is to be hoped that they are." Sarah Stanwood married Wm. A. McKim in October, 1850, three months after the alleged secret marriage of James G. Blaine and Harriet Stanwood. She died many years ago. Ex-Congressman LeMoine, who witnessed the marriage of Blaine in Pittsburgh, says he never heard of S. L. Blaine. He, too, is doubtless dead. Dead men and women tell no tales and contradict no tales told by the living.—[Times.

It is of little importance whether Mr. Blaine's first or second marriage, thirty years ago, was the legal marriage, but it is of the highest importance whether or not Mr. Blaine tells the truth now. His word was so badly impeached by the Mulligan letters that what he says in his own defense on any question is not accepted unless corroborated by other testimony.—[Detroit Free Press.

The republicans are depending more on money this year than on oratory. Their most noted speakers are not available in this campaign. Schurz and Curtis, Beecher and Higginson are lifting up their voices on the other side. Ingersoll no longer regards Blaine as a "plumed knight." Edmunds is "indisposed," and Conkling insists that he is not engaged in "criminal practice."—[C. J.

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

—Nathan Welsh, jailer of Jessamine, is dead.

—The estimated reduction of the public debt for September is a little over $13,000,000.

—Mrs. Julia, wife of A. T. McDonald, committed suicide in Clark, making the second person in two days.

—Mrs. Belva Lockwood suggests a cessation in the presidential hostilities for the purpose of improving the morale of the contest.

—The thermometer registered 95° at Petersburg, Va., Tuesday in the shade. This was higher than during the summer. There was one sunstroke.

—The Carrollton democrats sent $15 to the national democratic committee. Every democrat in Kentucky who is able should send on his dollar at once.

—Samuel J. Randall has appointments to speak daily for Cleveland and Hendricks in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia from now until October 13th.

—Belva Lockwood at last has a running mate. Mrs. Marietta Starr, of California, announces herself as the candidate of the woman's suffrage party for Vice President.

—The contract for the convict labor of the State expired Sep. 30, and as there are no bidders for the work of the prisoners, they will be returned to confinement in the penitentiary.

—The star route investigation is still in progress. It has proved that at one time the government was paying $450,000 to carry mails to offices that yielded less than $12,000 revenue.

—The republican party, in its death struggle for existence, will make the wilds of Ohio howl this week. Blaine, Logan, Elkins, Powell Clayton and other noted windmills of the organization are stirring up the animals.

—The New York Evening Post says: "The most damaging of Blaine's epistles to Fisher have not yet been published, and if one of them, especially, were given to the public it would drive Blaine from the country by the next steamer."

—During its present tour the Louisville base ball club has played four games and only lost four of them. It is understood that telegrams have been received here explaining that they would have lost the fifth game but for lack of time to play it.—[Times.

—Acting Post master General has issued an order requiring the postoffice to be kept open for the issue and payment of money orders and for the receipt of matter intended for registration, and for the delivery of registered matter, until 6 p. m. daily, except on Sunday and legal holidays.

—The footings of the mortality from cholera from the first outbreak in Toulon up to last Thursday amount to 14,132. There were 7,974 deaths in Italy, 5,798 in France and 360 in Spain. In Naples alone the deaths to that date amounted to 5,923, in Marseilles 1,733, in Toulon 982 and in Arles 383.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(To the Editor of the Interior Journal.)

WASHINGTON, September 30, 1884.—There may be a belief that the public service at Washington is carried on with some degree of faithfulness. The officials in control of the various departments are assumed, by the public, to be at their posts, discharging the obligations which rest upon them and for which they are well paid. But the delinquency which really exists in this respect is something unparalleled in the history of the civil service of this country. In the first place, the President is absent and has been for weeks. Finding himself left out in the cold, he throws aside all sense of responsibility and practically abandons the administration of affairs. His cabinet also seem to be struck with the idea that "this is the time for disappearing." The wily Chandler, the crafty Frelinghuysen, the gorgeous Brewster, and the silent, because he don't know what to say, Lincoln having been gone so long that they are almost forgotten. To name the absentees of the lesser rank would be a heavy drain on the official blue book. Those who are here are the exception; those absent the rule. Most of them are in the field electioneering for the Knight of the White Feather and not a few are drawing pay from the government and at the same time are being paid for speeches by the republican campaign club. Notably in this case with General Dudley, commissioner of pensions, whose resignation does not take effect for a month, and who is drawing a salary of $3,000 per annum, and making speeches at $50 a day. This for the gentleman who poses as the great friend of the soldier, is a glaring example of official delinquency. Not so fortunate is Mr. French, the first assistant secretary of the treasury. He "disappeared" in April and passed the warm months traveling in Europe, paying his own expenses, it is needless to say, out of an unearned salary. But while he was gone he was forgotten, and when he returned to find Secretary Folger lying dead, he also found that he had been supplanted in official favor by others and though immediately in the line of promotion himself, his name was not even mentioned for the secretaryship. Not to grow wearisome on the subject of the unblushing delinquencies of the officials in the departments, I challenge comparison with any other period, for the utter disregard of honesty, decency and responsibility which now prevails in Washington. The bank president and cashier delinquencies of the time are only noticeable more because effecting private interests, but as far as criminality is concerned are no grosser.

The republicans have about abandoned all hope of doing anything in the South. They did intend to make an effort to capture North Carolina and Florida, but the reports from those States give them no encouragement. It is now clear that they must carry New York State to be victorious. To do this they must overcome a united democratic party with an alliance of liberals; a combination which elected Grover Cleveland Governor by over 192,000 majority. To overcome this lead is impossible. The democrats will elect their ticket.

The Blaine menagerie is on the road and Barnum's greatest show on earth pales into insignificance. But will it pay Blaine to start out with a circus at this season? There are many republicans here who are groaning over the spectacle. In their view, it is the tawdiest clap-net and does not change a vote, except from him. But it was recognized by the party managers that something must be done. New York is quietly but solidly for Cleveland. The democratic composure must be broken if possible. The Germans of Ohio are going democratic. Blaine will try to magnetize them. Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois are about given up. Blaine must show himself in these States, to save them. In a word, Blaine was ordered to take his whole stock of magnetic influence with him and start on the road in order to save the republican party from utter defeat. But it is a desperate resort and it won't do. People will turn out to see if he is really tattooed, but they won't vote for him. And in the meantime the campaign treasurers, for such are the government employees, have quit paying out their money. They fear that a "cold day" is coming about March 4.

A striking feature of social life at the Capital during this season is the crowds of beautiful and handsomely-dressed ladies that throng Pennsylvania avenue every pleasant afternoon. I heard a fashionable New Yorker say yesterday that he met more pretty women in an hour's stroll than would cross his pathway at his native city in two days.

A Mother Who Teaches Lying.

Ever since the first young woman I ever loved swore to me she loved me only and ran off with another fellow I have believed that the female sex does not really understand the truth. A young lady last night very candidly informed me that she considered a lie a very useful and artistic feature of life, and that the truth was as devoid of beauty as a straight line, and yet she expects me to believe everything she says. I honestly think the woman was entirely to blame in the Garden of Eden business. I know a young boy who is being simply ruined in his education by his mother. He is eight years old, with all the noble instincts of probity and obedience which generally characterizes a boy's nature. This tender parent has instructed him that whenever he gets on a car the appearance of the conductor to collect the fare reduces his age under five. He has been educated to give that figure when asked by anybody who wants to collect money for his transportation. Last week a friend of the family was displaying his interest in the child by inquiring his age. The little boy hesitated for a moment and then looked up at his mother: "Mamma, is he a conductor?" "No, child."

"Then I am eight years old."

A Lakeside Musing.

"Farewell, darling."

The speaker, who was a young man of twenty-five, with deep, lustrous eyes, soft, womanly voice, and a tailor bill of more than two years' standing, looked up beseechingly at the girl to whom he addressed these words and waited for her to reply. But no answer came. In the west, where the band of crimson light that streamed up from below the horizon told of the dying day, angry-looking clouds were gathering and an occasional vivid flash of lightning told of an approaching storm. The wind, which came in fitful gusts, sighed moaningly in the branches of the lindens that surrounded Brierton Villa, and the husky, after-supper sigh of a large birdly crowd sounded strangely in accord with its weird surroundings.

The man turns to go. Spite of all he can do there are tears in the brown eyes that such a little time ago were looking lovingly into those of Beatrice McNulty, and as he walked slowly down the gravelled path it seems as though the future held for him nothing but a desolate sorrow that could never know surcease or ending—as though the chalice of mighty grief had been held by the cruel hand of fate and drained to its very dregs by unwilling lips. And then, just as the horizon of his life seems forever covered with the pall of disappointed hope, he hears the voice of the one woman in all the wide, wide world whom he loves, "Herbert," she says.

In an instant he is by her side. "You called me?" he asked, his face illumined by the tender radiance of a newly-born hope.

"Yes," she answers. "I can not live without your love and we will let papa decide the question over which we came so near making wrecks of our lives. Do you agree to that?"

"I do."

"And so you children have quarreled over what the first child shall be named, and you are not yet married?" asks Mr. McNulty.

"Yes, papa," replies Beatrice. "I desired to call it Balva, but Herbert said that would be too feminine in case it was a boy. He insists on Cleveland, but that sounds so horribly masculine for a girl."

"Why don't you settle on something that would be neither masculine nor feminine? Would that be satisfactory?"

"It would," they answer.

"Then the matter is easily disposed of. I have a name."

"Tell it to me," cried Beatrice in girlish eagerness.

Bending lovingly over his child, John W. McNulty says in solemn tones:

"Call it for the preacher who officiated at Elaine's first secret marriage in Kentucky."—[Chicago Tribune.]

A Startling Story.

A newspaper man has many queer experiences. My chance acquaintance told me that a few weeks ago, in the northern part of the State of New York, he one day stumbled upon a factory in the back woods. He entered the establishment and found within a machine that resembled very much a large pencil sharpener. It was revolving very rapidly. In it were placed large sticks of poplar wood and these sticks were soon converted into large, thin shavings many feet in length. These shavings were then subjected to a grinding process and were finally converted into a substance that resembled a soft, velvety Indian meal. My newspaper friend inquired of the old man in charge as to the use of such an article, and he was informed that it was an artificial flour. The proprietor of the establishment was very reticent in regard to what became of it, what it was used for and who bought it. He said, "Well, I'll be darned if I know anything about it. All I do is know that we make it and sell it. Some folks say they make bread of it; others say they feed their hogs with it. I'll be darned if I know what they do with it. But rather not feed my hogs on it; I'd sooner eat my musty flour for them. You can't get any more out of me; you'd better go!"—[Boston Gazette.]

PAPER DOORS—Doors made of paper are being used in a number of apartment houses now being built in New York City. The doors of paper cost about the same as wooden ones, and are preferred by builders because they never shrink, swell, crack, nor warp. They are composed of thick paper boards, stamped and moulded into panels, cemented together with glue and potash, made to firmly and permanently adhere by being passed between heavy rollers. After being united they are first covered with a waterproof coating, followed by a fire-proof coating, then painted and varnished, and are ready to be hung. Except from the lightness those not in the secret would not suspect that the doors are not made of wood. When used as sliding doors the weight is not easily noticed and the illusion is perfect.

Don't Look Like a Wreck.

"When a man is going down hill everybody is ready to give him a kick." Yes, that is so. It is sad, but natural. Why, many a man and woman, seeking employment, would have got it if their hair hadn't been so thin and gray. One bottle of Parker's Hair Balm is then the best investment. It stops falling hair, promotes new growth and restores color. Clean, highly perfumed, not a dye. A great improvement over any smaller preparation and sold at the low price of 50c.

Public Suicides in China.
The most barbarous of all the death rites which have been observed in China was that of immolating human beings at the tombs of the departed great. As high as one hundred and seven men have been buried alive in the tomb of a single individual. This horrible custom does not prevail at all now, of course, but the same false and inadequate notions of the sacredness of human life do prevail universally. But of all Chinese customs the most remarkable has been the prevalent, public, fashionable suicide, conducted in public with every show of pomp and sometimes actually under the general direction of a mandarin. A gay procession would be formed and a delighted throng would follow the prospective victim to a scaffold which had been erected with great care. The scene would be the best view of the sacrifice would be sold and there would be a grand turnout of the sundering party's friends, as well as of the public at large. Perhaps it would be a young widow, who had resolved to end her miserable existence on account of the death of her husband, a widow not being privileged to re-marry in China. The occasion would be treated as a regular holiday by the natives. For some time the woman would chat pleasantly with her friends, partaking of a bountiful feast with them on the gallows. Then having caressed a little child that was placed on the table before her, and adorned it with a necklace, she would take a basket of flowers and scatter the blossoms gaily among the crowd, after which she would cheerfully place her head in the noose and swing off into eternity. As a rule, suicides are now performed without such publicity, but they are very common.

MORE CORDIAL THAN CORRECT.—Col. W., a well-known politician of Virginia, with a slight lisp in his speech, won much favor by his affable manners, and the fact that the people generally liked him had more than once secured his election when he ran for office. He usually spoke to everybody he met, professing to know them.

Once, during a presidential campaign, he met a countryman, whom he shook by the hand and began:

"Why, how do you do this? I am very glad to see you. A fine day, this! I thee you will ride your fine old gray, this."

"No, sir, this horse is one I borrowed this morning."

"Oh! Well, this, how are the old gentleman and lady?"

"My parents have been dead three years, sir."

"Ah, but how with your wife, this—and the children?"

"I am an unmarried man, sir."

"There enough! Do you you still live on the old farm?"

"No, sir, I have just arrived from Ohio, where I was born."

"Well, this, I guess I don't know you after all. Good day, this."—[Youth's Companion.]

A writer in the Woman's Journal says: When I hear the people complaining that they have no time to read, I feel sure that some of their time is badly spent, because I have seen people crowded with all the work which it is possible to crowd into life, and yet have seen them getting some earnest living thought from our great thinkers. No one in the world can be driven more with hard work than a woman with several children on a large farm; no one in the world can find it harder sometimes to get books to read than such a woman, if the place is not paid for, yet some of the best informed, most deeply read, most thoroughly educated persons have been such women. But "something always gets crowded out," and if one takes this view of life, she must leave out some of the unnecessary sewing and unnecessary conventionalities.

A COUNTRY WHERE WE'RE ALL CLIMBERS.—"Yes, I knew Tom Waller when we were both 'wharf rats' and used often to sleep on the docks in a fish-box, and he generally gave me the softest side—the side that had the most feathers in," said John Dye, a well-known, obese and good-natured salesman at the Fulton fish market; to a Herald reporter the other day. "Yes, I knew him well then; and now he is Governor of Connecticut; and I am 'chucking fish.' That isn't his name, though, and John Dye isn't my name; we don't either of us know our names. But that doesn't matter; this is a free country, and gives the poorest boy a chance if he is only smart," and the fat John tossed another fish into the scales.—[Stamford Herald.]

"How much do you charge for your peaches?" asked a lady at the fruit stand at the Central station. "Ten cents a quart," said the clerk. "Too dear," replied the lady. "But," persisted the young man, "these are hand-picked, and we warrant them to cure consumption and heart disease." The woman actually purchased two quarts.—[Rochester Chronicle.]

Buttons! Buttons! Buttons!
The Boston Globe tells all about buttons and where they are made in this way: The button trade of New York is estimated to amount to from $8,000,000 annually, although Europe is the chief seat of the button manufacture. Glass buttons are nearly all made in Bohemia, where many children are employed in the factories. They receive about ten cents a day, women thirty cents, and the men forty to fifty cents. Vienna is at the head of the pearl trade, but many shirt buttons are made in Birmingham, which is also the great locality for the production of metal buttons. The Paris and Berlin manufactures for novelties in this line are the most extensive of any in the world. In one village, situated near Paris, and having a population of from 5,000 to 6,000 people, all of the working class are engaged in making agate buttons, which, when imported into the United States, under a thirty per cent. duty, sell for about thirty-one cents a great gross. It is said the material alone could not be produced here for double that price. The American manufacturers excel in making bone, brass and ivory and gold buttons by machinery, and export large quantities of the goods. Providence, R. I., has been quite largely engaged in this branch of the business.

"Young men, you are the architects of your own fortunes; rely on your own strength of body and soul. Take for your star self reliance. Inscribe on your banner, 'Luck is a fool, Pluck is a hero.' Don't take too much advice, keep at the helm and steer your own ship, and remember that the art of commanding is to take a fair share of the work. Think well of yourself. Strike out; assume your own position. Put potatoes in a cart, go over a rough road and small ones go to the bottom. Rise above the envious and the jealous. Fire above the mark you intend to hit. Energy, invincible determination, with a right motive, are the levers that move the world. Don't swear. Don't deceive. Don't read novels. Don't marry until you can support a wife. Be civil. Read the papers. Advertise your business. Make money and do good with it. Love your God and fellow men. Love truth and virtue. Love country and obey its laws."

"Oh, Penelope," said a brown-eyed fairy to her blue-eyed child, "I'm just the happiest girl in the world. I'm going to be married."

"Oh, my, isn't that nice? Of course, it's 'Carley Cooney?'"

"No indeed! It's Will Handeboy. He's the dearest fellow in the world."

"Why, who is he? I never heard of him."

"Never heard of him! Oh, Penelope, he's the pitcher of the Bangtown Batters, and he pitches seven different curves."

"Oh, you are the luckiest girl in the world!" shrieked Penelope, and then they hugged each other and giggled in course.—[Hatchet.]

D. Farr, recently stated that if one could watch the march of 1,000,000 people through life, the following would be observed: Nearly 150,000 would die the first year, 53,000 the second year, 23,000 the third year, and less than 4,000 in the thirteenth. At the end of forty-five years 500,000 have died. At the end of sixty years 370,000 would be still living; at the end of eighty years 97,000; at eighty five, 31,000; and at ninety-five years there would be 223; at the end of 108 years there will be one survivor.

A fashionable German wedding in Brooklyn, last week, closed with an artificial snowstorm in the concert hall where the ceremony was celebrated. A heavy fall of flakes soon covered the floor, when a fiery black horse, decked with bells, dashed into the room drawing a magnificent sleigh. The bride and groom mounted the sleigh and the guests pelled them with snowballs.

A young law student in the Southwest went to an old judge to be examined for admission to the bar. After a desultory conversation, the judge said, "Well, young fellow, hang out your shingle and go ahead." "But you have not examined me." "Never mind," was the brilliant reply. "If you don't know no law you won't get no practice, so you won't do no harm now."

After using three bottles I found myself once more a man, completely restored to health, with a hearty appetite and a gain in flesh of 40 pounds." CURE FOR PILES.
Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, after getting warm, is a very common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the tumors, allaying the intense itching and affording a permanent cure. Price 50 cents. Address the Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piquette, Ohio. Sold by McRoberts & Stagg.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT,
GROVER CLEVELAND,
OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
THOMAS A. HENDRICKS,
OF INDIANA.

FOR CONGRESS,
GOV. JAMES B. MCCREARY,
OF KENTUCKY.

PERSONAL.

—MR. JOHN J. McROBERTS went to Cincinnati yesterday.
—MR. HUGH L. PORTER has gone to the Exposition.
—ELD. W. B. CLOYD goes to Kansas today on a business trip.
—MR. JAMES M. WRAY is recovering from a pretty tight spell of malarial fever.
—MISS LILLIE McCLEARY and Mr. Joe McCleary, Jr., have been attending the Louisville Exposition this week.
—MISS GEORGE ELDRIDGE, of Memphis, has taken charge of vocal music at the College. She is said to be a very superior musician.
—MR. JOHN M. McROBERTS, SR., and Miss Mamie Beazley left yesterday to visit the family of Mr. W. T. Green at Pineville, Bell county.
—MR. F. J. CAMPBELL, unable to be idle, has already engaged and gone on the road for the Cord & Sinton Manufacturing Co., of Louisville, the great saddle and harness firm. With his indomitable energy, Mr. Campbell ought to have been a millionaire by now.
—MESSRS. MYERS, Burnside, Wherritt and Duncan, the fishermen, arrived from South Fork of the Cumberland last night. They took a good many fish but fearing their not too solid flesh would melt, sitting on the hot river bank, they thought discretion the better part of valor and came home.

LOCAL MATTERS.

A BED spring factory has been added to our industries within the last week.
W. H. HIGGINS has just received a new supply of cook stoves and grates and ranges, to which he invites your attention.
WARREN & METCALF have just received direct from Boston, an elegant line of breakfast, dinner and tea sets. Call and see them.
BLAINE did not prove much of a drawing card for the Cincinnati Exposition from this section. The railroads put down the rates to a mere song and yet nobody here was sufficiently anxious to see the tattooed man, to invest even that much time and money to do so.
This county is entitled to send four properly prepared students to the State College at Lexington, tuition free, on the recommendation of Representative Thomas P. Hill, Jr. Those who wish to embrace this superior opportunity to secure an education will confer with him as soon as possible.

REV. F. S. POLLITT will preach at Hall's Gap church Saturday afternoon, 4th, at 2:30 P. M.

We are a little crowded with advertisements now, but you notice we try to give our usual supply of interesting reading matter.

COL. AND MRS. W. S. ELKIN have sold their house and lot of seven acres on the Lancaster pike, 5 miles from town for $1,500, half cash.

ALL persons who have failed to pay their accounts due July 1st are respectfully informed that we need the money and hope they will settle without further notice. W. H. Higgins.

Don't forget the supper at the Odd Fellows hall to-night. All the substantial and delicacies of the season will be served by pretty girls, willing to take your last cent for a good cause.

THIRTY FOUR degrees at Bismark, 29 deg at Buford and Deadwood, 32 deg. at Fort Gustav and 31 deg. at Assiniboine, with killing frosts were reported yesterday morning and here we are burning up with the mercury away up in the 90s.

MR. C. B. DAVIDSON writing from Taylor, Texas, and enclosing money to pay his subscription to Sept. 1, 1884, says: "Cotton crop is only a half crop, corn and oats are very good, corn 30 cts. per bushel and oats 20 to 25 cents and cotton 9 cents per pound. We have had plenty of rain in the last few days, but it has been very dry since the first of June."

In a conversation with a leading lawyer of Stanford he said that the only solution of the convict labor question was for the State to buy an island or some other isolated country and establish a penal colony after the manner of the English. In any other condition the convicts must either be idle or their work be brought in competition with free labor whether they did it in or outside the prison walls. Judge Varn n'p'n would perhaps be the best to adopt: "I would have no penitentiaries" said he. "For all grades of larcenies and other crimes less than murder I would punish with the lash, ranging in the number according to the merits of the case. For attempt at rape and all grades of murder, death on the gallows."

YESTERDAY morning about 6 o'clock a chimney of the Waverly House fell upon the roof, producing great consternation among the guests. Many thought it was an earthquake and standing not upon the order of their going went out at once from the building, some even forgetting to hide their night apparel even in a sheet. The bricks fell over the room of the young bridegroom, Harvey McRoberts, and it is said that he was the worse frightened individual ever seen. He rushed madly about with a flag of truce fling in the breezy morning air and refused to be comforted, even after the catastrophe had been fully explained. For further particulars interview mine host, Lige Burnside.

—Robt. Bonner has 8 trotters including Maud S., which cost him $227,000.

—There have been some sales of corn in the field here at $2, equal to about $2.25 delivered.

—Humphrey Ballou sold his cattle advertised in this paper to T. M. Littard & Son at $4.70. They weighed 1,020 lbs. Jas. Givens sold to same 1 steer, 1,200 lbs., at 5 cents.

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

—Frank Chanfrau, the actor, is dead.
—The debt of the United States, less cash in treasury, is $1,425,467,055.

—Seventeen car-loads of tobacco, valued at $180,000, was shipped from Lancaster, Pa., to San Francisco.

—The will of John W. Garrett devotes $50,000 annually of his net income to charitable and benevolent purposes.

—Rev. Henry White, alias Washington who murdered a man named Howard in Logan county, Ky., is in jail at Nashville.

—Caisson No. 9 of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad bridge over the Sequahanna at Frenchtown, Md., sunk, imprisoning 6 men under 60 feet of water.

—The Upper Mississippi is rising rapidly, which occasions the gravest fears on the lowlands, where immense damage will be done unless the flood subsides.

—Miss Sallie Oldham, so brutally stabbed by her uncle, Samuel Clay, in Bath county, a short time ago, is recovering from her many and fearful wounds.

—The following officers of the L. & N. were elected Wednesday: President, Milton H. Smith; First Vice President, Eckstein Norton; Second Vice President, A. M. Quarrier; Secretary, R. B. Warren.

—Pennsylvania cattle breeders are using the right cure for pleuro-pneumonia. A Chester farmer found eleven of his herd sick with the disease. They were promptly slaughtered and the entire herd will be killed.

—A Lynchburg, Va., dispatch says: The tobacco year closed with September. The sales for the year were a little over 21,000,000 pounds, 3,000,000 less than the year previous. It is safe to say the incoming crop is much larger although cut short by the drought.

—The New York Herald contains more damaging letters from Blaine. It is proved that he had $40,000 worth of stock in the Spencer rifle fraud and used his official position to help along the company. The Herald also publishes indisputable evidence that Blaine owned $25,000 worth of stock in the Hocking Valley coal and iron region of Ohio.

—The democrats are polling the State of Illinois. Returns have been received from about one-half the election districts of the State. Those received make a showing that is at once surprising and gratifying to the democratic managers. The returns give the names of about 5,000 republicans who will not vote for Blaine. Should the remaining precincts give the same average, a total of 10,000 or 12,000 will be found in Illinois outside of Chicago. These figures do not include the Germans who have bolted Blaine.

The Brooklyn Eagle says: "Mr. Tilden is not a silent spectator of the struggle now in progress. We are informed that he is preparing an address to the American people which will be published in a few days. A severe illness that overtook him about five weeks ago has delayed the execution of his purpose. With returning strength he takes up his pen to enrich the literature of this campaign with a contribution destined to become historic. He will appeal to the intelligence and patriotism of the American public in behalf of the cause represented by Cleveland and Hendricks. Mr. Tilden ranks as the most profound political thinker, the most sagacious and philosophic statesman, in the country. Coming from such a source, the address can not but have a powerful influence in determining the issue of the contest."

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—Little Charlie, one of the twin babies of Mr. Wm. Silliman, died of cholera infantum Tuesday.

—Mrs. M. Robinson, late of Camp Dick, Garrard county, has bought the property of Mrs. Mary Hughes on Harrodsburg avenue for $3,500.

—Mr. David H. Williams, an old citizen of Boyle county died at his home in Shelby City Wednesday. Funeral at Danville cemetery yesterday.

—Christine, the little daughter of Mr. J. H. Engleman, who has been very ill, is convalescing. Mr. J. W. Yerkes has been confined to his room for about a week by sickness.

—The board of commissioners of the State Institute for deaf and dumb has accepted the resignation of Superintendent D. C. Dudley, tendered a few days ago on account of ill health. The resignation is to take effect Nov. 5th, prox., at which time an election of superintendent will be held. The Board is considering the applications of competent persons who desire the place.

—Mr. Jake Engleman is back from McAllister, in the Indian Territory, where he has been for two years engaged in business. He is home on a visit and expects to return in a short time. Mr. M. J. Farris now at Evergreen, Colorado, will leave for home about the 6th inst. Dr. R. W. Dunlap left Wednesday for a month's trip to Bloomington, Ill., and various portions of Kansas and Missouri where he has children living. Miss Katie Caldwell, a very popular young lady from near Bryantville was in town the beginning of the week. Mr. Jacob Barnett and wife and their grand daughter, Miss Stella Barnett, of Louisville, have taken rooms at the Clemens house to remain several weeks. They have been at Crab Orchard nearly all summer.

—R. B. Turnbull, doing business under the firm name R. B. Turnbull & Co., at Junction City, has made an assignment to Mr. F. W. Handman, of this place, for the benefit of creditors. The liabilities are referred to in the deed of assignment as follows: "Mr. Wm. Glenn & Sons $800; Ford Eaton & Co. $800; John Heekin & Co. $200; Rheinhardt, Newton & Co. $400; Jno. Shillito & Co. $200, and various other parties in larger and smaller sums. It is thought the liabilities will reach at least $15,000. The assets referred to in the deed are of an undivided interest in 18 1/2 acres of land lying near Junction City (on which only $193 has been paid) and all this personal estate, consisting of dry goods, boots and shoes, notes and accounts due the firm, neither the value nor the estimated value of the assets is given.

A Pinkerton detective was introduced to Sullivan, the New Jersey murderer, as a lawyer appointed to defend him. The ignorant criminal told his supposed lawyer the full story of the crime. By this confession he will be convicted. The murderer will be justly hanged. There is no law under which the detective can be hanged with him. The law is singularly deficient in some respects.

The republicans of Ohio are anxiously looking in those sections of the State traversed by Blaine for favorable results of his presence. They are unable to find any revolution in public sentiment. In fact, not a solitary conversion is reported.

—Ex-Senator McDonald says Indiana will give Cleveland 20,000 majority.

I will at my new stand, as heretofore, do my utmost to gain the confidence of the people by honest, fair and square dealing, and my Motto will be the same:

"QUICK SALES, SMALL PROFITS AND SATISFACTION TO EVERY ONE."

With thanks to all that have given me their patronage in the past and an invitation to every one to call on me in the future, I remain, respectfully,

D. K. LASS,

September 29, 1884.

Opposite Myers House, STANFORD, KY.

SINCE 1864 the popular vote for President has been as follows: In that year Lincoln carried 22 States and got 2,216,069 votes; McClellan three States and 1,808,725 votes; Lincoln's majority 407,342. In 1868, Grant got 26 States and 3,015,071 votes; Seymour eight and 2,709,613 votes; republican majority 305,458. At the next election, in 1872, Grant carried 31 States, with a vote of 3,597,070 and Greeley six with 2,831,079. O'Connor, dem., received 29,408 votes that year, and Black, temperance, 5,608. In 1876, Tilden received majorities in 17 States, making his vote 4,284,855. Hayes got 21 States and a popular vote of 4,033,950. In the same year Cooper, greenbacker, got 81,740 votes, and Smith, prohibition, 9,522, making Mr. Tilden's majority over all 259,673; over Hayes 250,835. Garfield and Hancock each carried 19 States in 1880, the former receiving 4,419,053 votes and the latter 4,442,035. Weaver, greenbacker, got 307,306, making an opposition majority against Garfield of 270,288. It will be seen by this that the democrats elected their ticket once and that their vote has been steadily increasing since the war, the difference in the last Presidential election being but 7,018 in favor of Garfield. With a stronger candidate than before and with one infinitely superior in every respect to the republican nominee, we can not see how it is possible for the democracy to fail of victory this time.

A RARE event in a single life will be celebrated by an old time dinner at the Galt House next Friday, the 10th. On that day Dr. C. C. Graham, still a hale and hearty citizen of Louisville, will be 100 years old. Three years older than the present "more perfect union of the States," he has slept under the bearskin with Daniel Boone, hunted deer with Simon Kenton, seen the States grow from 13, with a population of 3,000,000 to 38, with a population of 57,000,000; been contemporary with every President of his country and was a guest at the marriage of Abraham Lincoln's father and mother. [Times.]

THE Richmond Herald sadly remarks: "The grandson of John J. Crittenden is in jail awaiting trial for murder. The grandson of Henry Clay, bright and popular, is in his shroud, shot and killed by a saloon keeper in a drunken row." Yes, and a great-grandson of the immortal Patrick Henry was a prisoner in the Louisville jail Wednesday charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

BRO. BRINEY, who would have people believe he is so free from sin that he can cast a stone at Cleveland, is catching it on all sides for his uncalculated, unjust and unreligious article in the Apollonian Times. If the proprietor of that paper knows his interests he will muzzle the self righteous Briney. The people do not want their religion and their politics combined.

In one of his letters this week Gath says he has been so busy for the last twenty-five years that he has not had time even to get acquainted with his family. It is all his own fault. Nobody is dying to read his gush and the public would be just as well off were he to take an indefinite leave of absence.

TAMMANY exhibited its first open piece of treachery by nominating a full county and city ticket, without consulting the other democratic organizations of New York, and passing a resolution which first slapped Cleveland in the face and then mockingly pledged him loyal support.

—The Kentucky Mexican veterans will have a grand reunion at St. Louis October 8 and 9.

—The new patent process flour mill at Lexington is now in operation, turning out 250 barrels per day.

—The report that Gen. Thos. Ewing, democratic candidate for governor of Ohio in 1879, intends to support Blaine, is pronounced a lie.

—The stockholders of the L. & N. met in Louisville Wednesday and decided to issue $5,000,000 in new stock. President Smith's report is as follows: The mortgage debt outstanding June 30, 1884, was $7,530,712 against $57,903,230 at the last report. The capital stock of the company consists of $25,000,000 outstanding listed stock and $5,000,000 treasury stock unlisted. The floating debt was $5,346,111.68, against $2,138,984 the same date in 1883. The earnings of the road for the year were $14,351,092.81, against $13,234,916.28 the year preceding. The operating expenses of the year were $8,823,785.56, leaving the net earnings $5,527,307.25. The net income of the road for the year was $1,127,336.56, against an outlay of $1,260,247.10.

DEATHS.

—Barney VanArsdale Craig, son of John H. Craig, whose illness was mentioned in last issue, died at Vanderbilt University at 8:45 p. m. Wednesday, of typhoid fever, aged 16 years. He was a bright and promising boy and his death falls with peculiar force on his father and old grandfather, who had built high hopes on his future. Three years ago Barney gave his heart to his God and has since tried to live a Christian. My his relatives and friends find consolation in believing their loss is his gain and that whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth. The remains arrived here at 1 o'clock this morning and after services at the Presbyterian church by Revs. I. S. McElroy and H. C. Morrison at 2:30 p. m. to-day will be laid away in B. F. Lowmery.

PAINT LICK, GARRARD COUNTY.

—There was not a single ticket sold here to the Blaine Show.

—The firm of Smith & Rice, successors to R. H. Batson took possession on the 1st and will in a short time open up a large stock of goods.

—W. Ward sold to Dr. Holland, of Berea, a part of the land lately purchased of Gideon Rothwell about two acres for $500. Dr. Holland will move in a few days. Dr. Spillman sold to Henry Beazley a house and lot for $450.

—Mamie, little daughter of Capt. T. K. Hackley, has been quite sick with malarial fever. Tom Soper left Tuesday for Lexington, where he will attend college. R. G. Ward, of East Bernstadt, smiles behind the counter of Ward & Lutes. Will Ward went to the city this week to lay in his supply of fall and winter stock of goods.

—We chanced to go to Crab Orchard Monday and on our way stopped at the famous watering place, Dripping Springs. They have undergone such a change since they have been in the possession of Mr. D. J. Slaughter that we can hardly realize that it was the same place. When we were last there, there were a few old dilapidated buildings standing here and there. The ball-room was propped up with poles. Mr. Slaughter has put in their stead two large buildings and in a few days he will have them furnished and on Saturday, Oct. 18th he will open up with a grand ball, theatrical plays, balloon ascension, display of fireworks, &c.

The oldest and largest tree in the world, so far as is known, is a chestnut near the foot of Mount Etna. It is hollow and big enough to admit two carriages driving abreast through it. The circumference of the main trunk is 212 feet. The Grizzly Giant, monster of the Mariposa Grove, measures 92 feet.

CRAB ORCHARD, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—Corn cutting is now the order of the day with farmers and hands that are not too lazy to work can make good wages.

—Conundrum: If Gov. J. B. McCreary can beat two such two-legged men as Phil Thompson and Judge Durham, how many one-legged men like Sebastian can he beat?

—Col. W. G. Welch and Judge Jno. M. Phillips, of Stanford, and the Hon. Robert Tomlinson, of Lancaster, are here taking depositions in the case of W. H. Singleton's heirs vs. Clara W. Singleton, his widow.

—J. B. Gilkerson has returned home after a business trip of one month at Chattanooga. Jim says Tennessee will give a larger majority to Cleveland than Kentucky. Dwight Hardin and Will Stamper are down with fever. Mrs. John Slavin, of Danville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. W. Jones, this week.

—Squirrels are almost as plentiful here as they were in 1876 and corn fields near timber are being greatly damaged by them. It they have not reached Stanford yet, come up, Mr. Editor, and we will take a hunt and have a burgoon prepared by that prince of burgoon-makers, A. Carson, Esq., and if you don't think he can make good burgoon ask Welch.

—We are much obliged to the editor for his kind enquiry about our health. We have not had the flux, but the "blues." We were rather suspicious that we "were one of several that filled up with personal about people that nobody cared to read about," and thought probably our space would be more preferable than a letter; hence our silence. [We could not have meant you, who send less personals than anybody. Ed.]

—Joe Jones sold to George W. James 2 small mule colts for $40 each. G. W. King bought 20 nice mule colts at $50 to $65 per head. Andrew Tucker bought of R. H. Bronaugh one mule colt for $75. Hiram Hiatt sold to Bowen Gover 2 dry cows and 2 scrub yearlings for $92. W. R. Dillion sold to W. T. B. White one yoke oxen for $100 and another to B. B. Land for $95. Andy Rice was here last week and bought of various parties several butcher cattle ranging from 3 to 4 cts. Good feeders are in demand and scarce.

—Cleveland's chances for the Presidency grow brighter each day. One of the most prominent republicans in this district today joined the Cleveland Club and was given the right hand of fellowship by the members present. He had hardly been initiated before he proposed to bet a suit of clothes that each of the following states went for Cleveland: Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, Massachusetts and New York, but of course could get no takers. We will withhold the name for the present, but if any one is anxious to learn who the new member is, call on Wick Howard.

—J. T. Lasley, who was born and raised here, but now a popular Cincinnati drummer, was married to Miss Jean Dickinson, of this place, Wednesday at 11 o'clock, a. m., at the residence of the bride's mother. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. G. Livingston in his usual impressive style, in the presence of the family, near relatives and a few intimate friends, after which the happy couple took the 12 m. train for Cincinnati, their future home. We have known the contracting parties for years, having gone to school with them in our boyhood days and are satisfied their union can be but a happy one. Our best wishes and that of their many friends in this vicinity attend them.

—I notice in your last issue a correspondent from Junction City, who signed himself "Sretaw," says he was on the night express to the republican convention. (A mighty bad plan for a democrat to go to, if he be one) and "that a drunken man got on at Crab Orchard, the place where some mighty bad men live, and with knife in hand scared two Stanford boys into vacating their seats," &c. We would like to say to "Sretaw" that every drunken man or sober one, either, that gets on the train at Crab Orchard depot (which is a half mile from town) is not a resident here by any means and in this instance the gentleman he speaks of lives some six miles from Crab Orchard. Now as to Crab Orchard being the place where some "mighty bad men live," surely Mr. S. is a stranger here. For the last six years there has not been a quieter or a more civil town in Kentucky. Her citizens are quiet, law-abiding men. We have no bullies or roughs here. And "Sretaw" people who live in glass houses should not throw stones. There never has been a time in the history of Crab Orchard that any two of her citizens tried to assassinate her marshal.

GARRARD COUNTY DEPARTMENT.

—At half-past ten o'clock Wednesday morning, at the Baptist church, Mr. Howard Rice, son of one of our prosperous farmers, was married to Miss Stella Marksbury, the beautiful eldest daughter of H. A. B. Marksbury, Esq., a prominent business man of this place. The church was crowded with such an audience as has rarely been seen in Lancaster. Rev. T. P. Hale pronounced the impressive ceremony. The attendants were C. A. Robinson and Miss Nannie Wood; B. G. Fox and Miss Lelia Marksbury. The ushers were W. J. Kinnaird, J. B. Johnston, Frank Fox and Sam G. Harlan. The bride presents were numerous and costly. The happy couple accompanied by their attendants, left immediately via Danville for Cincinnati and the East.

—The Bright farm of 500 acres, in Woodford county, has been rented at $50 per acre for next year.

—A. H. Hughes sold 100 barrels of new corn last week to J. A. Couchman at $2.25 in the field. [Winchester Democrat.]

—The Lebanon Standard reports sales of 100 yearling mules at an average of $87.20; 10 fat mules at $129 and 50 head of 1,000-pound cattle at 41.

WANTED TO BE SAFE.—An old German down in Ohio, who runs a cooper shop was elected overseer of highways for his township last spring. After waiting a month or two for something to happen, he called on the chairman of the board of supervisors and said: "I vvas come to see about a bond." "Bond, What bond?" "Vhell, I like to gif a bond for one thousand dollars dot I don't run off mit some money from de township." "Oh, as to that you want have any public money in your hands." "Vhell, den I like to gif a bond dot I don't steal somebody's cow while I vvas in office. I vvas elected only six weeks in office, but I pegin to feel like I wanted to steal a whole drove of cattle!" He was allowed to give a bond and went home satisfied.

A NEW WAY TO BUY A HORSE.—The Turf, Field and Farm says that previous to the $10,000 race at Hartford, J. D. Ripley requested Charles H. Raymond to put a price on the gray gelding, Phil Thompson, who was entered for the purse and was regarded as having a good chance to win. Mr. Raymond declined but said he would entertain an offer. Mr. Ripley remarked in an off hand way, "I will give you double what you paid David Bonner for his half interest in the horse." "Say double and $3,000 additional and the horse is yours." "No, but I'll make it $1,000." Mr. Raymond reflected a moment and then remarked, "I will take it." "All right, now tell me what you paid David Bonner for his half interest." "What, you do not know?" "No." Well, it was $8,500." "The devil, you say. Then I owe you $18,000." DEMME but it's hot.

and who bought it. He said, "Well, I'll be damned if I know anything about it. All I know is that I know it and sell it. Some folks say they make bread of it; others say they feed their hogs with it. I'll be damned if I know what they do with it. I'd rather not feed my hogs on it; I'd sooner buy mussy food for them. You can't get any more out of me; you'd better go." [Boston Gazette.]

PAPER DOORS.—Doors made of paper are being used in a number of apartment houses now being built in New York City. The doors of paper cost about the same as wooden ones, and are preferred by builders because they never shrink, swell, crack, nor warp. They are composed of thick paper boards, stamped and moulded into panels, cemented together with glue and putash, made to firmly and permanently adhere by being passed between heavy rollers. After being united they are first covered with a waterproof coating, followed by a fire-proof coating, then painted and varnished, and are ready to be hung. Except from the lightness those not in the secret would not suspect that the doors are not made of wood. When used as sliding-doors the weight is not easily noticed and the illusion is perfect.

Don't Look Like a Weak.

—When a man is going down hill everybody is ready to give him a kick. Yes, that is so. It is sad, but natural. Why, many a man and woman, seeking employment, would have got it if their hair hadn't been so thin and gray. One bottle of Parker's Hair Balsam is then the best investment, it stops falling hair, promotes new growth and restores color. Clean, highly perfumed, not a dye. A great improvement over any similar preparation sold at the low price of 50c.

John Dyer isn't my name; we don't either of us know our names. But that doesn't matter; this is a free country, and gives the poorest boy a chance if he is only smart," and the fat John tossed another fish into the scales. [Stanford Herald.]

"How much do you charge for your peanuts?" asked a lady at the fruit stand at the Central station. "Ten cents a quart," said the clerk. "Too dear," replied the lady. "But," persisted the young man, "these are hand-picked, and we warrant them to cure consumption and heart disease." The woman actually purchased two quarts. [Rochester Chronicle.]

Price 50 cents and $1.00. Sold by McRoberts & Stang.
